State Tax Cut Will Boost Tax On Real Estate

No Hope of Lowering Income Tax Unless Tax Is Levied on Real Estate—Appropriation Bill Passed.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9.—If Governor Smith's recommendation for a 15 per cent reduction in the state income tax is carried out by the legislature the tax on real estate will have to be increased.

This declaration was made from the floor of the lower house today by Assemblyman Hutchinson, chairman of the ways and means committee, during the debate on the annual appropriation bill.

The appropriation bill, totalling $138,000,000 was passed in both houses without a dissenting vote. This is the earliest the measure has ever been approved at any session.

Asked by Assemblyman Shonk, Republican of Westchester, if it would be possible this winter to reduce both the income tax and the tax on real estate, Hutchinson said:

"I see no hope of lowering the income tax unless a tax is levied on real estate to pay it."

Assemblyman Hutchinson said the total cost of state government for the next fiscal year would be at least $130,000,000 "and perhaps a little more." He said the state's total resources would yield about $172,000,000 and that the "difference must be made up by a levy on real estate."

"On the basis of these figures will it be possible to have any tax reduction?" Shonk asked.

"If the appropriations are held to the figure I mentioned, it may be possible to reduce the direct state tax," Hutchinson said.

Hutchinson then made it plain that if a 25 per cent reduction in the income tax was made the direct tax would have to be increased to make up the amount which the state would lose from the income tax.

Hutchinson's statement came as a distinct surprise to the Democrats and to many of the Republican assemblymen. The Republicans had hoped to be able to reduce both the income tax and the direct tax on real estate.

Assemblyman Shonk said he felt the people of the state wanted and were entitled to tax reduction this year.

The appropriation bill is $12,000,000 larger this year but about $11,000,000 of the increase is for education.

Spanish Flyers On Last Leg

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 9.—Commander Franco and his comrades on the last leg of their flight from Spain to Buenos Ayres, have already covered 590 miles of the distance between here and Buenos Ayres, according to wireless messages received here.

Commander Franco reported that he is making excellent progress, and is experiencing no difficulties despite the fact that he is flying through a rain storm.

They are expected at Montevideo today, whence they will fly at once to Buenos Ayres, which is less than 150 miles down the La Plata river.

Commander Franco's difficulties in getting away from the heavy load of 3,000 gallons of gasoline which he carried, made his first flight for the purpose of expending some of this gasoline and then returning to his base a new start.

Today's flight is approximately 120 miles, and it is expected that it will be made in less than 12 hours. Arrangements have been made for a grand public reception for Franco and his comrades in Montevideo.

Negro Convicted In 14 Minutes

Newcastle, Del., Feb. 9.—William Miller, 21, negro, is back in a cell at the work house here today following his conviction in Georgetown of criminally assaulting Lenora Schmitz, 12, on January 21. He will hang "at a convenient place in Sussex county between the hours of 12 a. m. and 2 p. m. on February 24. A jury convicted him in 14 minutes.

Miller was whisked out the back door of the court house in Georgetown shortly after 2:00 p. m. and was driven to the work house by a car.

Miller was arrested at his home in Georgetown on January 21, after a woman named Mary Smith had been found dead in a rooming house.

Temperature 15 Below Zero Here

Evidently Br'er Ground Hog and Br'er Bear, the veteran weather prophets, made no mistake in diving back into their dens when they saw their shadows on Candlemas Day, for the worst blizzard of the winter followed in their footsteps and the city is still busy digging out from under it. Monday night the thermometers began dropping as the weather became colder and as low as six degrees below zero was reported in many places in Kingston early this morning. During the early hours of the day the thermometers hung close to the zero mark and the cold was extremely raw and penetrating.

The self-registering thermometer of William S. Ethington at the rear of his residence, 21 John street, showed at 7 o'clock that the coldest point recorded sometime during the night was fifteen degrees below zero. A number of persons reported seeing thermometers that had registered 10 below at 7 o'clock, while others reported from zero to four and six below. While location of thermometers was an argument as to the extent of the cold at those places, there was no dispute among pedestrians and others out in the open from 5 to 9 o'clock concerning their feelings as to how cold they were.

22 Below at Shandaken.

Hiram F. Whitney of 137 Washington avenue, who came to town from his summer home at Shandaken, reported that his registering thermometer had registered the low temperature during the night as having been 22 below-zero.

Catholic Church Opposes Dry Law

Cardinal O'Connell Says Compulsory Prohibition Is Opposed to Holy Scripture—Against Curtailing Personal Liberty.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 9.—In view of the position he occupies as senior prelate of the Roman Catholic Church, Cardinal O'Connell's statement against the d law but in favor of temperance made public today, was generally accepted as the official attitude of the church.

Cardinal O'Connell said that "compulsory prohibition in general is fully opposed to the Holy Scripture." He pointed out that for 1,900 years the Catholic Church has worked for temperance. But he did not believe in curtailing personal liberty.

Cardinal O'Connell held that liquor was not to be blamed for excessive and harmful use by individuals. Drunkenness, however, he termed an ugly vice and he lauded voluntary abstinence.

Regrettable attempts by prohibitionists to place Catholic temperance workers in a bad light were mentioned by the cardinal, special reference being made to the action of certain American prohibitionists who endeavored to secure the moral support of the Pope for the law of prohibition. And, later, when they realized their error, hurried to disavow it.

Young and Smith Talk Water Power

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of directors of the General Electric Company, today was partly lined up with Governor Smith in his battle with the Republican leaders of the legislature over water power.

The governor and Mr. Young conferred at the Executive Chamber at the Capitol last night until nearly midnight.

"When we were through," the governor said, "we found we were not very far apart. Mr. Young left me with the distinct impression he is anxious to be helpful in the water power plan as laid down by me."

While the governor and Mr. Young were in conference, the Democratic leaders in the legislature were introducing a resolution asking the water power commission not to lease any of the state's power sites until after the report of the Hughes commission, which is planning a reorganization of the government.

Van Keuren Gets Penitentiary Term

Re-sentenced in County Court and One Year in Albany Penitentiary Substituted for Previous Four Months' Jail Sentence—Penitentiary Sentence Suspended.

On motion of District Attorney Traver judgment in the case of The People versus William W. Van Keuren, convicted of assault, second degree, was vacated by Judge Joseph M. Fowler in county court Monday afternoon and the court re-sentenced the defendant according to the statutes governing this degree of assault. On being found guilty of assault, second degree, Judge Fowler sentenced Mr. Van Keuren to four months in the county jail and fined him $50. The jail sentence was suspended during good behavior. Mr. Traver then moved to have the sentence set aside as illegal and argument of the motion was set down for Monday afternoon.

The contention of Mr. Traver was upheld by the court and Mr. Van Keuren was fined $50 which was paid, and he was also sentenced to the Albany Penitentiary for a period of one year, but the execution of this portion of the sentence was suspended during good behavior.

Code Prescribes Sentence.

Mr. Traver argued that the code stated the minimum sentence which might be imposed and also prescribed the place where the sentence must be served, either a state prison or a penitentiary, or as provided by another section it might be served in a county jail where the sentence was for one year.

Floyd W. Powell, who appeared for Mr. Van Keuren, contended that there was no time limit set by law and that the court could exercise its judgment in sentencing a person convicted of assault, second degree, and that the court might sentence the defendant to less than a year in jail.

Judge Fowler held that he had power only to send the defendant to state prison or a penitentiary.

Preserve Defendant's Exhibit.

The second portion of the motion of District Attorney Traver in regard to preserving an accurate description of the exhibit of clam shells introduced in court by the defendant and known as defendant's exhibit No. 1, resulted in the court ordering that the exhibit as offered in court be filed with the county clerk as a part of the case.

On the trial a bag of clam shells which it was claimed the defendant picked up from his property where they had been thrown by boys, was placed in evidence. The exhibit was in a bag and the contents were not examined until The People were summing up their case. It was then discovered that in the bag was an envelope addressed to Mr. Van Keuren with the return address of a concern at Baltimore which manufactures feed and crushes shells for fowls.

Mr. Traver stated to the court on argument of the motion Monday that since he had been informed that there was going to be an appeal in the case he desired to have the exhibit preserved intact as it was introduced in court. The envelope which was in the bag at the time it was offered in evidence, he contended was a part of the exhibit, and he asked that a complete description of the contents of the bag be noted by the stenographer.

Judge Fowler stated that he was in doubt as to whether the envelope was before the court but directed that the exhibit be turned over to the county clerk as offered in evidence.

Mr. Powell stated that he had written to the concern whose address appeared on the envelope and they had informed him that in 1915 Mr. Van Keuren, who deals in shells and feed, had received a carload of oyster shells from them but that they did not and had not been dealers in clam shells. Mr. Powell contended that the envelope was not before the court and should not be considered as a part of the exhibit.

Court adjourned sine die. All jurors were excused at the morning session.

Mayor Walker Ill In Albany Hotel From Overwork

His Strength Not Proportionate to His Ambition and Nervous Energy, New York's Mayor Is Forced to Go to Bed Instead of Attending Legislative Hearing.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Mayor James J. Walker of New York may have to take a complete rest because of illness from which he has been suffering for the last few days.

This opinion was expressed here today by Dr. William H. Walker, the mayor's brother.

Suffering from a cold and completely tired out, the mayor came to Albany last night with a view of attending a legislative hearing today when a measure to give New York city $275,000,000 for subway construction will be up for discussion.

Must Remain in Bed.

Fearing if he came to the Capitol this afternoon to attend a legislative hearing he might develop pneumonia, Mayor James J. Walker this afternoon was ordered by his brother, Dr. William H. Walker, to remain in bed at the Ten Eyck Hotel.

"The mayor is suffering from a severe cold and nervous trouble, and I ordered him to remain in bed today," Dr. Walker said shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Feeling "A Little Better."

At 11 o'clock today Mayor Walker was still in bed at the Ten Eyck Hotel but Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant mayor, said he believed the mayor was feeling "a little better."

"We will not be able to tell until later in the day, however, if the mayor will be in condition to attend the hearing at the Capitol," said Mr. Kerrigan.

Advised Not to Make Trip.

Dr. Walker, who followed Mayor Walker to Albany last night, said today he had strongly advised the mayor against making the trip.

"I told him he had better stay in New York, go to bed and get a good rest but he wouldn't listen to me," said Dr. Walker. "The mayor said it was very important that he be in Albany today. He has overworked and is badly in need of a good rest."

Rest or Land in Sanatorium.

Senator William Love, Democrat of Brooklyn and the only physician in the senate, who attended Mayor Walker when the latter was taken ill here two years ago, today predicted that if the mayor did not take a rest he "will land in a sanatorium."

"I attended Senator Walker two years ago when he collapsed on the floor of the senate," Dr. Love said. "I saw him two or three times daily in his hotel room for some time after that. His blood pressure was very low and he had lost his vitality. He burned himself out to a marked degree. In fact I never told him how sick he really was at that time."

"Boiler Power" Below Par.

"My diagnosis of him is that he is liable to live on his nerves—his physique is not proportionate to his 'pep' and ambition and nervous energy. From an endocrinological standpoint his boiler power is below par. I predict that if his friends continue to urge him to go the pace that he has been going in the last month that inside of a year he will land in a sanatorium. I don't wish to be an alarmist, but my opinion is asked and it is up to me to say what I think."

Overworked and Tired Out.

Edward L. Stanton, secretary to Mayor Walker, said today there was nothing serious the matter with the mayor but that he had overworked and was tired out.

Reports which reached the Capitol early today that the mayor was seriously ill were denied by Kerrigan and Stanton.

Governor Smith Anxious.

Governor Smith was anxious about the mayor's condition and he called the hotel early today to find out how the mayor was feeling. The governor was told the mayor was still in his room but that he was not feeling any worse.

On his trip from New York to Albany yesterday afternoon the mayor underwent and went to bed. He suffered a fainting spell in New York Saturday night.

Belated Letter From Trenches

Personal Letter From General Pershing to War Correspondent Arrives Seven Years Late.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 9.—A World War letter arrived today from the trenches in France—seven years late, but welcome and prized.

The letter was written by General John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the A. E. F., from "G. H. Q." at Chaumont, March 18, 1919, to Bert Ford, accredited war correspondent, representing International News Service and the hundreds of newspapers it serves throughout the world.

General Pershing in the letter expresses appreciation of himself, staff and troops for the "adequate and accurate information" presented to the American public by Ford in his International News Service dispatches.

As a representative of the International News Service Ford has been in the combat 18 months with the American, French and British forces on the western front. After the armistice he went into Germany with the American Army of Occupation.

Learning that Ford was about to leave Coblenz and the A. E. F., to interview President Woodrow Wilson on his arrival at Brest, to report developments at the peace conference in Paris and later to sail home with the Yankee Division, General Pershing dispatched the personal letter which missed Ford by a day in Coblenz. Then it suffered the adversity and oblivion of other mail and baggage. It finally came to Ford today through an army intelligence officer.

The letter follows:

"My Dear Mr. Ford:

"It gives me a great deal of pleasure to express to you for myself, my staff and the troops our appreciation of the services you have rendered to the army and to the American public, during your stay with us in France.

"Coming to us as you did, in March, 1918, you were with the American front line troops continuously, with the exception of three months last summer, when you were with the British. During that time you won golden opinions from officers, correspondents and men, and we are indeed sorry to see you leave.

"I believe you had exceptional opportunities for observing and, as a representative of the International News Service, I am glad to feel that you fully fulfilled your duty of giving our people adequate and accurate information of the troops.

"With warmest personal regards, believe me, very truly yours,

"JOHN J. PERSHING."

Lack of Five Cents Spoils $150,000

Expenditure of Five Cents for Wire and Knowledge of How to Use It Would Bring Relief to Owners of 150,000 Worth of Radio Sets.

It was not just fat frying but a noise like that of a hundred boiling caldrons and a dozen bubbling brooks that overwhelmed radio receiving Monday evening from 9:18 to 9:35, from 9:57 to 10:22 and from 10:47 to 11:03. Surely somebody needs five cents worth of wire and a knowledge of how to use it in order to stop his motor, generator or whatever it is from spoiling the enjoyment of hundreds of persons and rendering at least $150,000 worth of radio sets useless.

Aside from the bubbling caldrons, reception was clear and strong Monday afternoon and evening.

From 50 to 100 hours of service can be obtained from weakened B batteries by using them only on strong local stations such as WGY, WJZ and Kingston's own WDBZ. Perfect batteries will weaken without developing any noise other than a slight continuous squeal, which increases as more A current is turned on the tubes. When weakened to the point where they no longer work on distant stations, they are still effective on nearby strong stations and if used on those stations only will give considerable service and at the same time greatly prolong the life of the new set you are using for distant stations. Keep tubes turned low and the squeal will be reduced or eliminated.

Keep Reich from Entering League

Believed Reason for Mussolini's Attack—Berlin Press Condemns Premier's Speech—Germany Awaits Stresemann Reply.

Berlin, Feb. 9.—An outraged German nation waited today for Minister of Foreign Affairs Stresemann to give adequate reply to Premier Mussolini for the attack he made upon Germany before the Italian Parliament several days ago.

Stresemann will deliver his address before the Reichstag this forenoon.

The Luther cabinet after an all day sitting, last night approved the text of the note applying for admission into the league.

The cabinet's decision to adhere to its original plan to enter the league was influenced, it is believed in some quarters, by the impression that Mussolini's broadside was deliberately launched to keep the Reich out of the league for the time being lest once at Geneva she find too many sympathizers in her dispute with Fascism.

The extremist press seethed with excitement this morning, even the moderate newspapers joining in the chanting hymns of condemnation of Mussolini's abhorrent speech.

Some Nationalist newspapers point out that Mussolini's speech, delivered on the eve of Germany's entrance into the league, reveals that Germany will play a pitiable role at Geneva and that she has little to expect from the "spirit of Locarno."

Senate May Probe N. Y. Phone Co.

Proposal of Senator Thayer, Republican, Calling for Data of New York Telephone Company May Result in Investigation.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9.—For the first time in years the Republicans in the legislature today were back of a resolution which may lead to an investigation of the New York Telephone Company.

Under a proposal sponsored by Senator Thayer, Republican of St. Lawrence, chairman of the senate public service committee, the public service commission is asked to give the senate complete data within twenty days on all rate increases and federal court litigation in which the telephone company is interested.

"I have been disturbed because the telephone company of late has been going to the federal courts not only to secure rate increases but to block action of the state authorities," said Senator Knight, Republican leader of the upper house. "The Thayer resolution may lead to a basis for some action by the senate."

Resolutions calling for a probe of the telephone company have been introduced for several years but always have been killed by the Republicans.

Senate Requests Coolidge to Take Hand in Strike

Senate Adopts Copeland Resolution By 35 to 21 Vote Requesting President to Intervene in Coal Strike—Coolidge Silent.

Washington, Feb. 9.—President Coolidge would not commit himself this afternoon on the senate's request that he abandon his policy of "hands off" the anthracite coal strike, and invite the operators and miners to a joint conference at the White House to settle the strike.

News of the senate's adoption of the Copeland resolution was communicated to Mr. Coolidge at the conclusion of the cabinet meeting and he told inquirers he would give it "careful consideration."

The resolution specifically requested Mr. Coolidge to initiate action which will settle the strike.

Situation Not Changed.

The President, however, informed questioners that he did not see where the situation was changed any by the senate's action, for if it had appeared to him that his intervention would have made peace in the anthracite industry months ago, such action would have been taken.

The fact that fifty-five senators voted in favor of his intervening, however, constituted a serious factor to be considered, it was stated.

Resolution Adopted 35 to 21.

Reversing itself completely, the senate requested President Coolidge to intervene in the anthracite coal strike, by calling the operators and miners to the White House for a conference.

The senate's action was taken by the adoption of the Copeland resolution, which is twice voted down last week.

Its adoption followed a flurry of debate, in which administration leaders characterized the move as "futile" and sought to prevent its passage as an embarrassment to the administration but the Democrats rallied around the resolution and supported by the insurgent Republicans, it went over, 35 to 21.

The Resolution.

The resolution, as adopted, read: "Resolved, that the president be requested to invite to the White House at such a time as he thinks best the committee of operators and miners, in order that he may urge upon them the national importance of an immediate settlement of the anthracite coal strike."

Appeals for relief from northern Atlantic states caused a switch in a dozen votes and the resolution was easily adopted.

Sharp debate preceded the senate's action. Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, demanding that the senate itself invite the operators and miners to a peace conference.

He said the president was without power to negotiate a settlement but Senators Copeland and Simmons, Democrat of North Carolina, maintained the president could wield a far greater influence upon the operators and miners than could any delegation of senators.

Gowns and Wraps in Rich Fabrics

Many Shown Frocks of Crepe Georgette With Sleeves of Velvet.

Black is worn extensively for afternoon at the smartest rendezvous, advises a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. It seems that the elegant Parisienne will never quite abandon it, despite all the tedious attempts to put it out of fashion. The sheer black frocks of crepe georgette with velvet sleeves are legion. The small felt or velvet hats are de rigueur with such afternoon frocks and complete the general harmony of the ensemble. For instance, a coat of black velvet with a fox collar opens over a long tunic frock of black-colored crepe.

For evening wraps it is wise to choose a simple but rather full outline. Metal cloth is very attractive for such wraps, but the modish velours are generally preferred right now. They are exquisitely supple and colorful, three Paradise or Prisoner velours, which are used in all shades, black included. But the rub, jade, bordeaux and emerald shades are favorites. Trimmed with fur—chinchilla, seal or shilo fur—these capes are made to look still richer by some embroidery in light colors and metal threads.

The frock with movement is, of course, the great favorite of the hour. It is the frock which, when the wearer is at rest, gives her that famous slender silhouette which she wants to preserve at any price, while it has all the width to animate the silhouette at the slightest pirouette of the owner. The movement can be obtained by inverted folds, by fringes and by transparent trunks, especially lace.

Says Anna Le Vignac, in Le Quotidien de Paris:

"When you look today at the fashion magazines of a year ago, you are surprised how much the modish silhouette has changed since then. Rigorously straight, tight, narrow coats which permit only tiny steps were still the vogue last year; today we wear coats with wide lower edges, with gores and slanted plaits which undulate at every step.

"It is true that the straight line is not entirely abandoned; sports frocks and tailor makes remain straight, owing to the box-plaits which give them the necessary width; but it is no less true that the winter coats all have a flare and that most of the coats are raglans.

"The cut of our clothes, which was very simple and quite monotonous during the last few years, now has become extremely varied and complicated. The days are gone when you could cut your coat or frock from scant amounts of fabric and often almost without a pattern. If you want to make a coat or frock nowadays you must decide first of all which cut you prefer, then get a good pattern, then find out how wide the fabric has to be and finally buy the material."

Slenderness, Feature of Smartest Fashions

After a season of what seemed to be hopeless effort on the part of designers to oust the straight silhouette from its strong position in fashion, they have succeeded in relegating it to a place of secondary importance, according to a fashion authority.

Slenderness, however, is the basic foundation of the smartest modes, but there are subtle flares, swirling draperies, cleverly disposed fullness and an indefinable tendency toward elongation that produce an effect vastly different from the fashions of last season.

Fullness is always present whether it appears at the back of the frock, at the sides or in front, and whether it takes the form of plaits, gores, circular flounces or panels cut to suggest the uneven hemline that is an outstanding feature of many of the most interesting new models.

A new development in Paris is the use of two tones of a single shade combined to fashion a frock of compelling interest and charm.

High necklines are another new note which adds to the distinction of present fashions and the very short skirt, given individuality by cleverly arranged flounces or draperies.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

Mary Graham Bonner

A HARD JOB

In the town of Reven-Saw the parents were taking the places of the children, and the children were taking the places of the parents.

Dr. Billy Repeat-ed it.

For instance, little Billy Ma-hon was the make-believe dentist, and he was treating Daddy Fenwick who, since changing places with his son, had become a boy.

You may wonder how such changes could have taken place, but Reven-Saw was such an unusual town anything could happen there—even the most unusual thing.

Now Daddy Fenwick had been sent to see Doctor Billy, and as Doctor Billy did not know what his own father knew about dentistry, he had put a piece of cotton in the very tooth that didn't hurt.

"But you've put the cotton in the wrong tooth," Daddy Fenwick said quite clearly now that the dab of cotton was out of his mouth.

"Dear me, did I, indeed?" laughed Parent Dr. Billy. "Well, it only goes to show I healed up your sore tooth before you were even out of my chair!"

"Some dentists would have kept you coming back day after day. That's not my way."

"Shall you leave the cotton in the other side? Oh, I would. An ounce of prevention and all of that, you know."

He waved in a grand manner, and Daddy Fenwick joined his parent in the waiting room.

He made up his mind he wouldn't say anything about needing to come back in three months or that his teeth weren't strong, but Doctor Billy repeated it to Parent Billy who promised she would attend to this. It was so important, she agreed, to look after a child's teeth.

In front of the dentist's office they met Parent Ethel Milton.

"My dear," said Parent Ethel Milton to Parent Billy, "I haven't seen you in an age."

"Couldn't you come over this evening with Robert and Natalie for a game of bridge? I've so much to tell you."

"Let me see: Yes, I do believe we can come. Thanks so much. It will be a great pleasure."

Daddy Fenwick didn't say a word but that evening when he got home, he said to Mother Fenwick:

"They're all going out tonight after they get up to bed."

"We can have some fun. Plenty of pillow fights and everything."

Of course that was quite naughty of Daddy Fenwick—especially since he had been a parent so recently and had found many occasions to scold the children for sitting up too late.

Parent Natalie put the oatmeal on the stove so it would be all ready in the morning.

Most nights now, the new parents went to bed after all their chores were over and after they had ended their day of looking after their unending parents who were now pretending to be their children, so they would all see what it was like.

But tonight they were going out. So there would be pillow fights. Plenty of them!

Confident Invitation

Mother had forbidden Jane and Joe to visit the neighbors without first being invited, and then they must ask mother's permission.

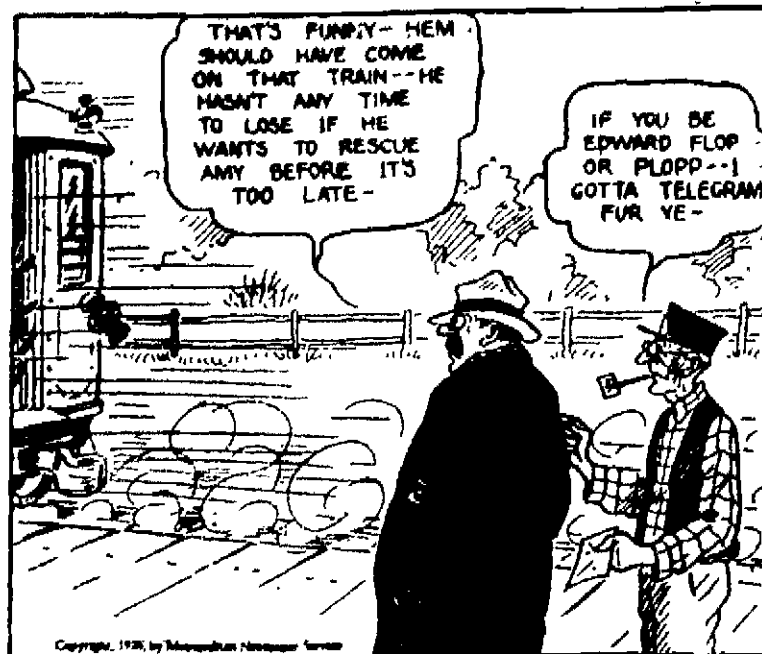

One day Jane rushed excitedly into the house and asked if she might go over to Mrs. Smith's.

"Did she invite you?" mother inquired.

"No," replied Jane, confidently, "but she's out in the yard and I think she's going to."

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE BRITISH HOWL.

This small feathered friend is quite common in the British Isles, and is the true explanation of the aversion to furnaces and other modern heating plants over there. Nearly every home has one tied up beside the fireplace. The snappy little creature is a regular little spit-fire, and whenever the fire gets low, he becomes angry and expectorates into the coals, whereupon the fire revives. He thus acts as a very dependable automatic thermostat.

As shown here, the body of the howl is an English walnut, and the head a ribbit. The feet are lima beans, the ears popcorn, and the beak is a split almond kernel sawed across. The eyes are painted on in almost any color.

Motor Shipments Aid Railroads

Are Big Factor in Railroad Prosperity—Would Take Entire Railroad Facilities Nearly 10 Days to Handle Automotive Freight.

Coincident with the announcement this week of the record earnings by railroads in 1925 comes the statement that rail shipment of motor products passed all previous peaks during the same year. The total of freight carloads of automotive products hauled by the railroads was 3,040,000 in 1925 according to J. S. Marvin, chairman of the Traffic Managers Conference, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The record railroad earnings coupled with the record carload shipments of motor products are significant of the coordinate interest of all lines of transportation, says the statement.

"Motor transport is one of the major customers of railroads and, more important still, it aids the railroads in developing national resources and wealth. Just as the railroad is more economical in long haul transportation, so in many forms of short haul travel the motor vehicle is the most efficient."

Total automotive freight, including shipments of motor cars and parts, gasoline used in automobiles, road-building material and kindred freight, during the year 1925, is estimated at 3,040,000.

Many other items such as building materials and equipment for factories and garages, less than carload shipments of parts and accessories and express matter, are not included because there is no separate classification for these.

Statistics show that it would take all the passenger and freight locomotives and all of the various kinds of freight cars of the railroads nearly 10 days to handle this business at one time; all of which is another way of stating the fact that of 177,962 carloads of freight of all kinds handled by the railroads in 1925, more than three million carloads were induced by the manufacture and use of motor cars.

The importance of this business to railroads is emphasized by comparison with the shipping of other principal commodities in 1925. Coal leads with 8,866,392 carloads. Followed by forest products 3,741,048 grain and grain products 2,300,199 ore 2,018,854, livestock 1,635,282. Shipments of automobiles and parts alone during the year approximated 820,000 carloads compared with 749,578 in 1924.

EDUCATOR ADVISES OUTDOOR SCHOOL ROOMS

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 9.—"Every community should maintain a wild life area, the larger the better, similar to our National Parks," says Dr. William G. Vinal, professor of Forest Extension, New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse University.

Wild life areas are of great value, as outdoor school rooms. They are important for their scenic attractions and as places where forestry may be demonstrated and the study of geology, wild plants, and animals may be carried on. They serve as game refuges, provide fishing, preserve native wild flowers, and afford opportunities for camping, scouting, and nature photography. They furnish a health resort, a refuge for tourists and a playground for picnic parties. All of these features are important and inter-related.

"We must preserve all our native wild life for the future as well as for the present generations," says Dr. Vinal. "Most of our large mammals, game birds, and many native wild flowers are in danger of extermination."

"We must preserve the balance of nature in every wild life area. To do this we must prevent pollution, fish diseases, fire hazards, and the introduction of new pests. Some pests which have been recently introduced into our wild areas are chestnut blight, white pine blister-bark, spruce and brown tail moths, and English starlings. The introduction of these foreign species from Europe has upset the balance of nature wherever they occur."

"Community wild life areas must be governed for the good of the people, free from politics. They should be rendered accessible by scenic roads and trail systems. Campers should use only dead wood for fires in designated places; there should be free nature guide service; approved sanitary arrangements are indispensable; outdoor sports should be encouraged. Artificial amusements such as dancing, and merry-go-rounds should be prohibited."

Large baskets of cut flowers completed the decorations. Several times the lights were turned out and the dancers enjoyed candle light dances. At midnight luncheon was served after which the dancers enjoyed the music until early hours. When leaving the guests declared it one of the prettiest dances ever given.

At the meeting of the Study Club last week the following new members were voted in: Mrs. Shinnick and Mrs. Fred Storr. A chapter member who resigned, Mrs. Margaret LeFevre Eltinge, was made honorary member. An invitation was accepted from the Tuesday Club of Poughkeepsie to a meeting of the Neighborhood Council in the white parlor of the Y. W. C. A. building on Cannon street February 16. At this meeting the state president, Mrs. Dickinson, will speak. This trip will take the place of the next Study Club regular meeting.

ing. The speaker at this week's meeting was Mrs. Alexander, her subject being the World Court and the League of Nations.

Miss Irene Ellis of Walden spent the week-end as the guest of Mildred Bell.

Good Stories Spread With Amazing Speed

Who originates the witty sayings and naughty stories which appear every day or so and run over the country as wildfire never ran? Who carries them on what wings?

I hear one of these good things in a club or at a lunch table downtown in New York and hurry uptown to try them on my colleagues at Columbia, says Carl Van Doren in the Century Magazine. Half the time, however, the thing has got there before me. I leave town for Chicago, say, and I am still like as not too late to surprise anybody with my goods.

There is a belief firmly held by many people that the telegraph operators spend their free hours during the night spreading the news. If this is true, the services of those useful men ought to be recognized, if not rewarded. What a charming idea it is that will goos whispering over the wires while the wits rest from their labors! It makes the country resemble a sleeping person in whom the unconscious sends the strangest messages along his dreaming nerves.

"Well, even that idea is worth imitating."

Back to Work

FOWLER MCCORMICK

Fowler McCormick, guest for several months at Mrs. James A. Stillman's Quebec ranch, will return to Chicago to buckle down to work in the International Harvester Company plant, to which he is heir, following amicable settlement of the Stillmans' marital difficulties. He was very friendly with Mrs. Stillman but scoffed at hints of a budding romance.

Never saw the man who was long on both talk and work.

Diagram Showing How to Install the UX 112 Tube, Using Storage "A" Battery.

This Diagram Shows the Dry Cell Tube Set Rewired for UX 120 Power Tube.

By EDGAR H. FELIX in Philadelphia Record.

The superior quality of reception obtainable with loud volume by the substitution of UX 112 and UX 120 tubes for UX 201-A and UX 100 tubes, respectively, in the last stage of audio-frequency amplification, makes their installation of interest to every owner of a receiver having two or more stages of audio-frequency amplification. Several important changes must be made in the wiring of the receiving set to adapt the circuit and power supply to the needs of the new tubes.

The UX 112 is the big brother of the UX 201-A tube. The filament current consumption of the new tubes is half an ampere, only double that of the economical UX 201-A. To secure satisfactory results with the UX 112 tube, 185 volts of plate potential are required, as compared with 90 volts usually used with the UX 201-A. Furthermore, unless the 9 volt "C" battery is used in connection with the UX 112 is a heavy user of "B" battery current and distorts considerably. By the addition of the "C" battery, however, a large size "B" battery can power this tube for a year or more. It is not necessary to use an extra large or heavy duty size "B" battery for furnishing the extra 45 volts required by this tube.

The method of connecting an extra 45 volt "B" battery is as follows: (1) Examine the socket which holds the tube used in the final stage of amplification and identify the plate terminal, usually marked "P." (2) Disconnect the wire attached to this terminal. (3) Connect the positive terminal of the new extra 45 volt "B" battery to the plate socket terminal. (4) Connect the negative terminal of the new "B" battery with the wire which you have just disconnected from the plate socket terminal. This gives a total voltage of 135 volts on the UX 112 tube, but it does not increase the plate voltage of the UX 201-A tube in the first stage of audio-frequency amplification.

Adding the Extra "C" Battery. A somewhat similar method is pursued in adding the extra 45 volt "B" battery. The new "C" battery is connected in series with the one already installed; the existing connections of the latter with the first stage of amplification are not disturbed. The secondary of the second audio-frequency transformer, however, is disconnected from the -4 1/2 volt terminal of the original "C" battery, a new lead being run from that secondary terminal to -9 volt terminal of the new "C" battery.

For dry cell tube sets using UX 100 tubes, the new UX 120 is used in the last stage. This also requires 135 volts plate potential obtainable from a large size "B" battery. The same instructions for connecting the extra 45 volt "B" battery for the UX 112 apply to the UX 120.

The UX 120 requires a 22 1/2 volt "C" battery. Substitute for your present "C" battery a 22 1/2 volt tapped "B" battery made up of large size cells. This assures you of long shelf life. There is practically no current withdrawn from the "C" battery, and consequently, its usefulness is determined by its shelf life.

A "C" battery is connected to the receiver direction as compared with a "B" battery. The "B" battery is connected with the plus to the plate and the minus toward the filament. The "C" battery, on the other hand, is connected with the negative terminal toward the grid and the -22 1/2 volt to the filament. The full voltage of the battery is impressed upon the grid if the grid return is made to the active connection of the battery, since its plus lead is connected with the filament. The usual circuit, starting at the grid, runs from the grid socket terminal to the secondary of the audio-frequency transformer; the other terminal of the transformer secondary to the correct terminal of the "C" battery, while the positive of the "C" battery goes to the negative "A" battery lead.

The UX 100 tube used in the first stage of amplification should have a 1 1/2 volt negative bias, but does not work with a 22 1/2 volt bias. Three cells give the required -4 1/2 volts. Securing 4 1/2 Volts for First Stage. The device may be confused by the markings on the battery when he is directed to connect the grid return of the first amplifier tube with the +18 terminal of the "C" battery in order to obtain 4 1/2 volts negative bias. As compared with +22 1/2, however, 18 volts is 4 1/2 volts less or negative. Consequently, to secure a grid bias of 4 1/2 volts, we connect the grid return to the 18 volt tap of the 22 1/2 volt battery. The 21 volt tap is 1 1/2 volts negative, as compared with +22 1/2; the 19 1/2 volt tap, 3 volts negative, and the 18 volt tap, 4 1/2 volts negative. If you now have no "C" battery in the first stage, simply disregard this part of the process. The grid return from the secondary of the second stage transformer is connected with the negative terminal of the 22 1/2 volt battery. This gives 22 1/2 volts negative bias, the amount required by the UX 120. The method of identifying this terminal has already been described in connection with the instructions for installing the 4 1/2 volt "C" battery for the UX 112.

National Radio Fading Tests Start February 9

Dates for the national tests of radio reception to determine the causes of static and fading were announced recently after 4,000 of the 4,500 designated observation stations had expressed a willingness to take part in the survey, which is being conducted by the Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation in co-operation with the Northwestern University. The first test will be held on the night of February 9, from 8 to 11 p. m. central standard time. The second and third will be on the two succeeding nights at the same hours. Subsequent trials will be held throughout the winter, should the data obtained indicate that real progress in a search for the causes of these two major radio annoyances is possible.

It was originally planned to hold these tests in January, but owing to the international tests scheduled for that month it was decided to hold the fading and static tests at a later date. Most of the observations will be made by broadcast listeners using standard receiving sets and depending upon their own ears. However, to insure the scientific accuracy of the result, 20 control stations equipped with electrical measuring devices and automatic recorders will be placed in the principal broadcasting centers of the country.

Safety First!

Before first in testing a new circuit, place some sort of a protective device in series with the negative lead of the "B" battery. If a short circuit exists between the filament and high potential B battery the protective device will give warning and protect the tubes.

The Storage Battery

The storage battery of a radio set requires greater attention than the ordinary battery, because there is no opportunity to keep it charged on the current in use.

Bloomington, Feb. 8.—The roast pork supper furnished by the Ladies' Aid of the Bloomington Reformed Church, which took place on the evening of February 2, was most gratifying to the ladies both socially and financially, as one hundred and forty-seven dollars was realized and the ladies wish to extend their sincere thanks to every one who was present. Also those who lent a helping hand and were not able to attend. It was attended by people from Rosendale, Tilton, Whiteport, Creek Locks. They had no doubt in mind the good things the ladies had most beautifully provided for the inner man. The chairman, Mrs. Mowell of the supper committee and Mrs. Andrew Hoffman of the entertainment committee and all other committees and helpers wish to extend their thanks to the girls who took part in the entertainment and also to the beautiful music which was furnished by the orchestra from Kingston. Thanks are extended to Robert Wirth and brother, Ollie Wirth, and in bringing other members of the orchestra with them which certainly was greatly appreciated.

William Bailey of Port Richmond, L. I., and Mrs. John Merrell of the city, both returned to their home on Monday afternoon after spending a couple of weeks with relatives and friends in New York city. On returning to their home Paul Zuehl accompanied them and is visiting here for a few days.

Miss Louise Virrett is spending a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. Paul Harner, in New York city.

A pipeless heater has been installed in the basement of the church which gives great satisfaction.

Mrs. Joseph Tonker, who is nursing at Dr. Sahler's sanitarium spent Sunday here at her home.

Mrs. Mary Relyea, who has been quite seriously ill is some better at this writing.

Conference on Highway Safety

Six Committees Appointed by Secretary Hoover to Submit Reports Dealing With Serious Problems of Street and Highway Safety.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The National Conference on Street and Highway Safety has been called to meet in Washington March 23, 24 and 25, 1926, according to an announcement issued by Secretary Hoover today. The governors of the states have already been invited by President Coolidge to send delegations representing their respective states.

In addition to these state delegations the conference will include federal, state and city officials, representatives of railroads, street railways, insurance companies, automobile manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, organized labor, commercial and trade organizations, organized motorists, the public safety councils, engineers and educators.

The first session of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety was held in Washington December 15 and 16, 1924. At this conference there were presented the reports of eight special committees appointed by Secretary Hoover to make a preliminary survey of the various phases of the traffic problem. The conference itself resulted in a report dealing with legislative, administrative, and regulatory principles, suggestions for cooperative work and a program of future activities necessary to any national program for accident reduction.

Immediately after the conference the secretary of commerce appointed six committees to carry on the work. These are the committees on statistics, the committee on uniformity of laws and regulations, the committee on enforcement, the committee on causes of accidents, the committee on metropolitan traffic facilities, and the committee on public relations. These committees have announced that they are now prepared to make their reports which will come before the coming national conference.

Steady Increase in Fatalities.
The committee on statistics will present a picture of the situation as it is today, bringing its 1924 report up to date as of January 1, 1926. It will state among other things that, while the rate of increase in street and highway accidents has been declining during the past two or three years, there has been a steady increase in total fatalities resulting from traffic accidents and that on six cities in the United States show any improvement in the accident rate for two consecutive years.

The committee on uniformity of laws and regulations has prepared a model motor vehicle code consisting of a model registration and certificate of title act, a model licensing of drivers act, and a model act covering rules and regulations for the use of the highways. This code which has been prepared in cooperation with the commissioners on uniform state laws, is intended for submission to the legislatures of the various states with the hope that by adopting the principles which are incorporated in the code some measure of uniformity of laws, rules and regulations may be accomplished throughout the country.

The committee on enforcement has dealt with the problem of rigid enforcement of all existing and future motor vehicle laws. Incorporated in its report will be a schedule of minimum and maximum penalties suggested for all types of traffic violations.

Most Study Fundamental Causes.
The committee on causes of accidents will report as to available data on the causes of accidents and deductions therefrom, and a program of organization for ascertaining the causes of accidents. The committee has taken the position that human incompetency and physical hazards are both important factors, the elimination of which would largely do away with accidents. Its report will point out the need for detailed study of the fundamental causes involved in any traffic accident.

The committee on metropolitan traffic facilities will outline the costs and the waste in time and money caused by traffic congestion in metropolitan areas and the plans and surveys to improve traffic conditions.

The public relations committee will present a program of organization and cooperation of all groups concerned for coping with the traffic problem.

Reports of all committees will be made available to the public in advance of the conference in order that the conference itself may have the benefit of public discussion and criticism of the various recommendations and conclusions which they contain, in preparing its final report.

GOVERNMENT OPERATION FAILS WITH TELEPHONES.

Merle Thorpe in Nation's Business Magazine writes:

The Europeans are discovering that telephone systems exist primarily to facilitate communication, and with that in mind there is a general movement to take them out of government ownership and place them under private management. In France—try to use a telephone in Paris—the French Chamber of Commerce has asked the government to make the change. Greece and Spain have turned over their government systems to private operations, and Italy has made a similar arrangement.

Prof. Michael Pupin, born in Europe, says the growth of the telephone industry in America is due largely to the research work that has been maintained year after year, at a cost of millions, by private companies. "Very few of the great advances in telephone art would have happened under government ownership," said Professor Pupin. "That explains why telephony is practically dead in most European countries."

MUSIC AND RADIO-AIDS TO CURE TUBERCULOSIS.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Music, the radio and other forms of entertainment play an important part in the modern hospital treatment of a tuberculosis patient, according to Dr. Robert E. Plunkett, director of the division of tuberculosis of the state department of health in an address here.

Dr. Plunkett discussed the opportunities for cooperation between lay committees and the county tuberculosis hospital. "The hospital superintendent should be a well qualified, full time tuberculosis specialist and he should be the official head of the county tuberculosis program. County tuberculosis committees can materially assist in this program through hospital visiting committees, frequent entertainments for patients and through assisting the hospital to secure public appropriations for needed services."

"The superintendent is interested in tuberculosis prevention work. The county nurse is an important factor in leading cases. The voluntary committee should be interested in the educational and social problems of the patients and in securing publicity for the work of the sanatorium."

COLD MAKES THE RADIO SETS CHATTER.

February 7th, 1926.

Editor Freeman:
Having been a radio fan since KDKA started to broadcast victrola music, I would like to point out to the fans of this city where the most of the noise comes from, most fans complain of.

During the past year ice cream companies have installed electric refrigerators in ice cream parlors in different parts of the city, and here is where you are getting the broad-casting you do not want to listen to. Even with the motors of these machines in good order, a sensitive set will pick them up at a distance of five city blocks by actual test, in the form of a heavy buzz.

Any electrician and a few cans of vasoline would fix these ice boxes in five minutes so they would give no more trouble.

As this is winter I am hearing a wonderful best week program broadcast from the box on Broad-street.

The Origin of the U. S. A.
By Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr.

GOOD NEWS—AND BAD.

Report from the commander-in-chief of the army of the United Colonies to the Continental Congress, dated, February 9, 1776:

"Captain Waters and Captain Tucker, who command two of the armed schooners, have taken and sent into Gloucester a large brigantine, laden with wood, a hundred and fifty butts for water, and forty suits of bedding, bound from Lahave, in Nova Scotia, for Boston."

Good news, indeed; but not so good as it would have been if the brigantine's cargo had consisted of ammunition, artillery and firearms. The wood could have been most welcome in Boston where the British soldiers were tearing down houses and even churches for firewood. It was well known that the British were in need of the non-arrival of supplies. It might help them to hasten their departure. But it was ponder above all things that the soldier-sailors of Washington's little navy were always hoping to find in the captured supply ships.

Further on in this same report to Congress the general told the other side of the story. He had tried every method he could think of, he said, to procure arms, but they were not to be had in the public stores of the New England colonies. There were nearly 2,000 men in camp without firelocks, and, said Washington, "if some method is not fallen upon, in the southern governments, to supply us, we shall be in a distressed condition for want of them."

On this same day, he wrote to the New York Committee of Safety requesting them to send him the arms which had been taken from the Long Island Towers by the Jersey boys. But from that source alone he could not hope for half enough firelocks to cover the need. He had sent out officers into the country to buy with ready cash to purchase arms from the people. Some had returned and brought in a few, and more were still out, but what their success would be he could not know.

"So far from having an army of 20,000 men well armed," he wrote on the following day, "I have been here with less than one-half of that number, including sick, fatigued, and on command, and above nothing armed nor clothed, as they should be in short, my situation has been such that I have been obliged to send a parcel of them to the army."

Buckeye incubators and brooders will Increase Your Poultry Profits

Poultry makes big profits and sure profits for the man or woman who goes at it right.

Ask any successful poultry raiser what incubators and brooders to use—ask your county agent—or write to your state agricultural college. The advice is almost certain to be "Use Buckeyes."

And ask us for the new Buckeye Catalog—a most valuable book on poultry raising. It tells how to feed, cull, get more eggs in winter and market for bigger profits.

Lutherans Close
Endowment Drive

Churches of New York Ministerium of Albany Conference Report $27,000
With Pledge of Remainder of Quota—Kingston Lutherans Attend Victory Dinner.

The state-wide campaign for the $500,000 endowment for Wagner
Memorial Lutheran College at Staten Island, N. Y., arranged from January 31 to February 8, was brought to an enthusiastic close Monday night at a victory dinner in the Hotel Hampton in Albany.

One hundred and twenty-five campaign captains and team-workers of all the Lutheran churches of the New York Ministerium of the Albany Conference submitted their reports. The quota was $45,000, of which $27,000 was handed in with a pledge of the remainder. All the conferences throughout the entire Synod met in similar gatherings in various cities.
Great was the demonstration when the summary was telephoned from
New York city that up to that hour $172,544 was on hand with quite a number of churches not completed, with an assurance of full quotas. The height of enthusiasm was reached when the Staten Island Community Committee, headed by the Borough officials and other prominent citizens, all of whom are non-Lutherans, telephoned to headquarters from a telephone Victory dinner that their contribution was $23,000 and that they would not quit until they had $100,- 000 for Wagner, the pride of Staten Island.

Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring
and Hone streets, the Rev. William H. Proetzsch, pastor, and Thomas P.
Hille, lay chairman, with its campaign not quite completed, submitted $2,758, just a few hundred dollars short of the quota. The captains are August Graft, Edward Gill, Louis
Walker and Edward Snyder. The following delegation was present at the Victory dinner: Edward Gill, August Graft, Douglas Hill, Lee Gregory, Ralph Heppner, Peter Kullmann, Carl Ortel, Thomas Hill, Ernest
Koenig, Louis Walker and the pastor.
By request of the Staten Island Community Committee the campaign will be extended until next Monday with the assurance, "over the top."
During the week previous to the campaign the Rev. Mr. Vesper of Hudson was authorized by headquarters to visit a number of families in Kingston for special donations.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 9.—With the exception of the baking company stocks, which were compelled to withstand heavy speculative selling, the stock market exhibited a buoyant tone today. The oils and coppers were the most consistent ground gainers while spectacular price moves of five and ten points upward were reserved for the high priced specialties.

A vigorous attack on Ward Dakling B and California Packing sent these stocks down eight and four points respectively. American Can, however, rushed up to another new high record for all time at 239. In response to the publication of last year's net earnings of $32.75 a share on the common stock. Allied Chemical sold up to 131 and Texas Gulf sulphur sold above 140 for the first time in its history.

California Petroleum was a strong spot in the oil stocks, moving up to 38. Sloss Sheffield's five point advance to 131½ featured the steel stocks.

Story of Tyrol
Campaign a Lie,
Says Stresemann

A Stupid Lie if Mussolini Claims
German Government Inspired Press Campaign Against Him—
Mussolini is a War Threat.

Berlin, Feb. 9.—Foreign Minister Stresemann passed the lie to Premier Mussolini of Italy today, in a strong speech in the Reichstag replying to the speech of Mussolini, threatening Germany because of the anti-Italian campaign in south Tyrol.

"Mussolini says that the stories of oppression in the Tyrol are a stupid lie," said Herr Stresemann.
"It is just a stupid lie if he claims that the German government inspired the press campaign against him."

Herr Stresemann's speech was acclaimed with enthusiasm, just as great as that which greeted Musso-lini's war-like speech in the Italian chamber.

There were especially strong scenes of enthusiasm when the German foreign minister declared that he protested against "the oppression of a helpless minority," in South Tyrol.

Moderate View.
Having passed the lie, Herr Strese-mann struck a more moderate vein which was not as pleasing to his audience.

There were howls of laughter from the Nationalists when he mentioned the "spirit of Locarno" and the League of Nations.

The American and British ambassadors were present in the diplomatic gallery.

"Mussolini's threats are either criminal or ridiculous," continued Stresemann. "We won't let anyone deprive us of the right to sympathize with our oppressed countrymen."

"Mussolini stresses Italy's power, power which is proof that there is no need to threaten helpless minorities," said Herr Stresemann.

A War Threat.
"Mussolini's speech is now proof of how necessary it is for all peaceful nations to join the League of Nations."

"The whole world sees in the speech a war threat. It is unconscionable with the spirit of Locarno."
"The German government does not back the boycott movement. On the contrary it considers it ridiculous for a handful of mercenaries to try to make a foreign policy."

"The Fascist government has broken with the Italian traditional policy of tolerance."

Charge is Ridiculous.
"The charge that the German government is behind the press campaign against Italy is ridiculous, for,
on the contrary, for years the German government has been working for restoration of the old friendship."

"Mussolini mixes up his own government with ours. He can dictate to the press."

"It is difficult not to speak harshly of the arrogance and intolerance of Mussolini's speech," said Strese-mann.

Mussolini recalls that Germany was the first nation with which Italy made a trade treaty. This is wrong.
The first nation was the United States. Anyway a trade treaty isn't a gift.

Criminal Colds
For a jury to acquit a prisoner on the ground that he was suffering from a cold when he committed a crime sounds ridiculous. But before long this may be accepted as a legitimate plea by even the sternest judge.

According to a famous doctor, infection of the nose and cavities of the skull by cold germs often results in confusion and lack of memory. Mental disturbances of this nature cause a person to act abnormally.

A woman stole a ring from a friend's dressing table. Everyone thought she was a common thief. It was proved later that she was suffering from a severe cold and was incapable of distinguishing between her own and other people's property.

Textile Strikers
Battle Police

Passaic, N. J., Feb. 9.—Three thousand New Jersey textile strikers, fought a pitched battle with the police on a bridge between Clifton and this place today. Dozens of men and women were injured.

Fighting from behind a barricade of automobiles, the police, sixty in number, used their clubs unmerciful-ly, dozens of strikers, many of them girls, going down, to be trampled by the throng of milling, screaming rioters. At the end of half an hour's fighting the battle was still in progress.

The riot was started when the mill workers, who have been on strike in Passaic and Garfield for two weeks, attempted to march into Clifton.

The entire police force lined up at the Garfield end of the bridge and refused to allow the strikers to pass.
After a few moments parley, the strikers rushed to the bridge head and the police brought their night sticks into play.

Boxer Dies After Ring Contest

Stamford, Conn., Feb. 9.—Samuel "Tiger" Smith, Norwalk boxer, died in Stamford Hospital today from effects of his prize fight with Walter Broderick of Stamford, here late last night. Smith went to the hospital after Broderick, known as "Kid Broderick," felled him with a stomach blow.

Broderick was arrested after Smith's death and is being held on a technical charge of manslaughter. Broderick was scheduled to fight "Battling Murray" at New York, but Murray failed to show up and Smith was substituted.

JACK DELANEY MAY MEET MIKE MCGUIRE. New York, Feb. 9.—It seemed probable today that a match between Jack Delaney and Mike McGuire, with the winner to meet Paul Berenbach for the light heavyweight title, would prove the solution of the McGuire-Berenbach controversy, which has resulted in the "State Athletic Commission" ordering the champion to remain inactive in local rings until he fights McGuire. Delaney has offered to meet McGuire in an elimination match.

EXPECT AMERICAN LEAGUE TO SUPPORT LANDIS. Washington, Feb. 9.—Adoption of the 1926 playing schedule, some possible trades in "ivory" and determination of the attitude to be taken toward a new contract for Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis for ten years as the "czar" of baseball, were among the things discussed today by the magnates of the American League.

The attitude the American League will take on the candidacy of Judge Landis to succeed himself for the ten years following the expiration of his present contract in 1927, may turnish some of the fireworks of the meeting, but it is expected the American League will follow the National League in supporting the proposal.

'Red' Grange May Start Grid War

Tim Mara sees football star's bank roll melting if he attempts rival league in New York—Grange issues threat to operate independently.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

New York, Feb. 9.—"Red" Grange is a fine boy and a great athlete but he has fallen into the hands of the Philistines. If he comes into New York for a professional football war, he'll lose his shirt and that magic "77" along with it. All that money he is supposed to have made this year will float right out the window.

Tim Mara, principal backer of the New York club of the National Professional Football League, made this statement today. A Philistine, according to Webster, is "one not appreciating the nobler aspirations and sentiments of humanity." Webster didn't add that a Philistine was one who failed to hold a franchise in the National Professional Football League, but Mr. Mara knows that he meant well.

In fact, he agreed that the hands of a Philistine might prove more kindly than those of a receiver.

"And that's no joke," he added. "I didn't make enough money last year to stuff a hat brim. I remember one game where our net profits were something like $105, which was absurd compared with what the players got. Of course, we expect to do better next year, but it's a cinch the revenue won't increase to a point where there will be room for two clubs. Under those conditions, all of Jake Ruppert's money could hardly save Grange from going broke."

Mara had just returned from Detroit where he successfully opposed Grange's attempt to obtain a franchise in the league, for operation at the Yankee Stadium. Grange's reply was a threat to operate here independently. Mara says he wishes him all the luck in the world because he feels that Harold will need more than that.

"I can see that brand new bankroll of his melting right away," he said. "If he attempts to go it alone here, he will have the same chance of any independent running against a solid organization, to wit: none."

"If he tries to organize a rival league, he will find the player market pretty low, even if he could locate adequate grounds in paying cities, which I doubt. The thing would mean the lining up of 150 players for eight clubs and I don't think there is anything like that many good ones available."

"Of course, he might get the services of a few stars. So did the Federal League in baseball and most of its backers would remain with us, knowing from experience that we can meet our obligations."

"Incidentally, I'm far from alone in my stand against an invasion of New York territory. The league is behind me to a man."

15 AMERICAN BOWLERS TO TOUR EUROPE.

New York, Feb. 9.—Fifteen American bowlers will take part in a tour of Europe this summer. It was announced today. Matches have been arranged at Stockholm on June 2, 3 and 4 for the United Bowling Clubs' challenge cup. Other matches will be played in Austria, Holland and Switzerland. The team will sail on May 20.

LOUGHRAN WINS HANDILY OVER AD STONE.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 9.—Ad Stone, the fighting marine, was decisively defeated by Tommy Loughran here last night before 10,000 fight fans.

Tommy peppered his opponent all most at will with left jabs and crossed his right time and again to win the judge's decision, after being credited with nine of the ten rounds.

JOE MCCARTHY IS NEW CUB LEADER

Former Pilot of Louisville Team Never Played in Major League.

Back in 1911 when Jimmy Burke was manager of the Indianapolis team of the American association, he had a rookie by the name of Joe McCarthy working for him. McCarthy was an infielder and his second-base play became so erratic and his batting so futile that Burke got sore one day and yelled at him: "You are no good at anything else, so just grab that bat bag and cart it to the clubhouse."

At the big league meetings the other day Joe McCarthy, new manager of the Chicago Cubs, hired this same Jimmy Burke to work for him as coach. "And I think I will make Jimmy carry a bat bag at least once just to get even with him," said McCarthy with a grin, after telling the Indianapolis story on himself.

As the Cubs are one of the famous teams of baseball, and Chicago the second city in the Union, the fans are keenly interested in this new manager about whom little was known in major circles when he was named by President Veck to lead his team for 1926.

Joe McCarthy is a medium-built man, strong face, quiet manner, gives the impression of having a level head and a lot of good common sense. He won two pennants for Louisville and developed some young players who have won fame in major league competition. He is a minor leaguer from A to Z. Never played in a major league game in his life. Born and raised in Philadelphia. He used to play both second and third base. He was made manager of the Wilkes-Barre team of the New York State league when only twenty-five years old, the youngest manager in the record books of baseball. Then he went to Buffalo as a player in 1914 and 1915 and did so well there that they tried him to jump to the Federal league. That league was disbanded before McCarthy ever played a game in a Fed uniform. He went to Louisville in 1916 as a player. Was later manager and ended his playing days in 1920.

Only once during his long reign in the Kentucky metropolis did McCarthy land his team out of the money, and that was in 1922, when he dropped to sixth. The rest of the time he was up in the 1-2-3 class.

Three Indians Will Try for Jobs With Chicago.

Three Indians will camp with the White Sox at Shreveport, La., during the spring training season, it was learned with the announcement of the team's personnel.

All three are rookies and come to the White Sox burdened with startling minor league accomplishments. They are Lee Najo, outfielder from San Antonio, Texas; William Carney of Ardmore, Okla.; and Edward McBee of Little Rock, Ark., both pitchers.

MOVIE CONTRACT MAY RESULT IN HELEN'S REFUSAL.

Gaines, Feb. 9.—Helen Wills is worried today lest her amateur standing will be affected by a deal made by "movie" men to film the anticipated Wills-Lenglen match.

William Blumenthal of New York, is reported to have paid $20,000 for the exclusive motion picture rights to this match. As a result of this deal six American motion picture operators have been excluded from the courts of the Carlton Club.

They have made a bitter protest to the management of the Carlton hotel, which disclaims responsibility, declaring that the tennis courts are rented out to the Burke family, professional tennis players.

When Miss Wills was informed of the situation she was most angry. "I don't want any incident of this sort which may reflect upon my amateur standing," she said. "It would be injurious to me to play in a tournament where money is demanded for the movie rights."

If Miss Wills is advised that her amateur standing is jeopardized she may refuse to play.

After her brilliant showing yesterday the odds against Miss Wills to beat Miss Lenglen had shortened from seven to one to five to one.

A. A. CHAMPIONS WILL MEET PORT JERVIS FRIDAY.

The Salvation Army champions will journey to Port Jervis, Friday evening, where they will meet the Port Jervis High School outfit. The Port aggregation looks a win over the K. H. S. outfit and Captain Miller's team will no doubt have a snappy contest in store for them this week end.

Normal vs. Wappingers.

The Normal High School quintet will take the court playground this Friday evening against the strong Wappingers Falls High School team. The Wappingers are a creditable outfit and will probably win. Captain Masterman and his stars are a tough lot and the match will be played on the New Paltz playground.

New Co-operative Party.

New York, Feb. 9.—James A. Farley, re-appointed with William M. McKelvey to the New York State Athletic Commission, was expected to be re-elected chairman today at the scheduled meeting of the board.
